Programme Overview

The Conducting Investigations programme provides participants with the necessary skills and knowledge to carry out fair and complete investigations. This programme focuses on the practices and procedures to be followed if an investigation into a grievance, disciplinary or bullying and harassment issue was needed.

Programme Outcomes

On completion of the programme, participants will be able to:

- Understand the main areas of employment law where investigations might be needed, including grievances, discipline and bullying and harassment
- An appreciation of the significance of the natural justice and how they relate to an investigation within an organisation
- Advise on best practice in the area of investigations
- Key areas to consider when conducting investigations
- Advise others who have questions or queries on how to carry out an investigation
- Write clear and concise investigation reports
- Ensure that the organisation is compliant with employment legislation when carrying out investigations and subsequent processes
- Identify issues that may potentially lead to a case being taken to a third party
- Know the current best practice approach to dealing with issues in the area of conducting investigations
- Critically review existing policies and procedures in the light of the above

Approach

The programme runs two consecutive days. There are a number of activities and case studies as part of the course to ensure that the key knowledge and skills are practiced.

The programme is delivered by experienced Ibec Executives who provide members with advice, consultancy and training on a daily basis. Programme participants are encouraged to express their views and experiences. The programme facilitates participant discussion to ensure a thorough understanding of the key points and their application. Real life case studies and exercises will be used to ensure a real practical understanding of each topic.

Who Should Attend?

All Managers wishing to improve their investigative skills and their understanding of the investigative process should attend. This programme would also provide human resources personnel with a helpful insight into the investigative process and the current issues raised by third parties.
